

Dear Family Member of (Agency Name) Employees,

Working in corrections is a challenging and demanding profession. It places significant responsibilities on our staff and often exposes them to difficult and stressful situations. For family members who may not see this firsthand, it can be hard to fully understand the emotional and physical toll the job can take — even though you, too, feel its impact when “work comes home.”

As we celebrate National Correctional Family Appreciation Week, from June 2nd to June 8th, we want to take a moment to sincerely thank you. Your support at home helps keep life steady and grounded for your loved one. You are there for them during the tough days and help provide the strength they need to carry out this critical work.

You are an essential part of their well-being, and by extension, of our entire agency. Our staff are our greatest asset, and your role in supporting them does not go unnoticed.

With deep respect and gratitude, we say:

THANK YOU.
